W. C. T. U. COLUMN

Mrs. Merrill Pipkin, Press Supt.

The temperance forces are like Banquo's ghost, "They will not down."

Three cheers for the seven thousand in St. Louis who have not bowed the knee to Baal.

Farmington went dry by 41 majority—so much for the efforts of the faithful few.

The temperance people were defeated by a large majority on the 8th, but thank God they went down with their faces to the enemy.

Even the most conservative believe the result of this campaign will give the women the ballot. "It is then that you want to keep your eye on the cat."

The W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. John Murrill next Tuesday afternoon, November 22, at 2 o'clock. All members are urged to be present, as we are to formulate definite plans for our next campaign.

We want to say to all church members that voted against Amendment No. 10, to sleep on now and take your rest, for the Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. Say to thy soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink and be merry.

A Respectable and Undaunted Minority.

"The saloon enlisted the most voters, but the home enlisted the most men. Every man was a voter, but every voter was not a man. There are men, real men—men of sobriety, veracity, integrity, honor and patriotism. Then there are wrecks of men, excuses of men, apologies of men, undependable, undesirable men. Nobody now or in future generations will have any occasion to be ashamed of the men who by their votes supported the cause of prohibition last Tuesday. They represent the better element of society. They belong to the class to which society is indebted for civil righteousness and for high moral standards in every department of life. They are the kind of men that stand for law, order and decency, and make the community a good place in which to live. The men who voted for prohibition are the men who make and preserve the conditions in which property and life are safe. They are the conservators of morality, the upholders and defenders of moral standards. They are the friends and defenders of home, womanhood and childhood. They are patriots—lovers of their country and their kind. They are not bound slaves to greed and gold. They are men. If you would locate these men you must go to the virtuous, Godly homes. And they are the men who are to be found in the prayer meetings, Sunday schools and church services. They are the supporters of missions and orphanages."

The Result of Tuesday's Election.

We are not accustomed to whine or to give strained explanations. We have been defeated, and we take our punishment without a whimper. It is the coward who weeps beneath the blows of his adversary. Valor often loves the vanquished far better than she does the victor. She never yet placed a laurel on the brow of him who bought his victory. We can at least console ourselves with the reflection that it required more than a million dollars and hundreds of lies repeated millions of times to overcome us. But the triumph of corruption and deception, though overwhelming, is always transient. We will bide our time.

The first battle is lost. But the war in which we have enlisted shall still go on. Our arms are not stacked. Our hearts are undaunted. Every impulse of patriotism inspires us. Every flutter of the flag of a Christian nation beckons us on. He "who went forth on the white horse, conquering and to conquer," is our Leader. Where His white plume leads we will follow. "We'll go with Him, with Him all the way." Seemingly He may have lost a battle, but He has never lost a war. The truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, is on our side, and that God who never permits truth to be permanently crushed will give us the victory in the end. Our fathers fought eight years to be free from the tyranny of an English king, and regardless of years we are willing to fight for freedom from the demon who is debauching our liberties and despoiling our race. Our lives are dedicated to the cause, and if from disease or exhaustion or old age we fall upon the field, we are teaching our children to grasp the banners as we let them fall, and bear them on to triumph.

The first shot has been fired upon the Missouri home. But watch its friends as they rally to its support. When they realize what they have permitted to be done, watch them as they come from the hills and the prairies and the valleys of this grand old commonwealth and cluster about it. They will never desert it while a cradle is rocked or a mother is praying within. The American home is the issue, and the war is on forever. In the long war between Rome and Carthage, old Cato, whether speaking on the improvement of the Tiber, the building of a temple to some deity, or the enlargement of the army, used to close each address by crying out: "Delenda est Carthago." Finally all Rome took up the refrain, "Delenda est Carthago," and Carthage fell. So, regardless of rolling years, our voices will ring out, "The saloon must be destroyed!" and some sweet day the refrain will be taken up throughout Missouri and the saloon will be destroyed.—Citizen.

Does Not Stimulate

Ayer's Sarsaparilla does not stimulate. It does not make you feel better one day, then as bad as ever the next. It is not a strong drink. No reaction after you stop using it. There is not a drop of alcohol in it. You have the steady, even gain that comes from a strong tonic and alternative. We wish you would ask your doctor about this. He knows. Trust him. Do as he says. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

What are Ayer's Pills? Liver Pills. How long have they been sold? Nearly sixty years. Do doctors recommend them? Ask your own doctor and find out.
